

Eurasian Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences

Use of multimedia in teaching Uzbek language

Urakova Zilola Salomovna.

PM Center of Kashkadarya region associate professor

ABSTRACT

In this article, the importance of modern educational technologies in the field of education, in particular, in the teaching of the Uzbek language, the formation of the necessary skills, creative and technological culture for the effective organization of the pedagogical process in the conditions of information age specific for the teacher of modern Uzbek language and literature.

Keywords:

computer, software, pedagogical technology, methodology, multimedia.

Today, we cannot imagine our society as a whole our daily lives without the mass media. Let's not talk about which sphere these tools will not leave us. Especially in the educational process, information technology is of particular importance. It is widely used in the study of youth knowledge and outlook on computer programs. Modern information technologies are introduced in the teaching of various subjects, which further increases the effectiveness of the lesson. As in all spheres of our country's socio-spiritual life, extensive reforms are being carried out in the educational system, this requires continuous improvement of the quality of education, increasing its effectiveness by bringing information technologies into the educational and educational process of Higher Education.

A lot of work is planned to be done on "training of highly qualified scientific and pedagogical personnel deeply mastered modern educational technologies, meeting the requirements of the period, conducting scientific research on new and effective methods of teaching Uzbek language and literature in secondary schools, academic lyceums and professional colleges, higher educational institutions, wide introduction of advanced pedagogical technologies". Therefore, he was included in the curriculum of the University of Uzbek language and literature "modern information technologies in the education of Uzbek language and literature". The subject "modern information technologies in the education of Uzbek language and literature" is aimed at teaching information and communication technologies that can be used in the teaching of the Uzbek language and literature, and the methods of their use at the required level. The purpose of teaching science is to equip future Uzbek language and literature teachers with the knowledge, skills and skills related to the use of modern information technologies in the teaching process.

The task of the science is to provide students with information about the pedagogical software used in the process of teaching, exactly the requirements for the resources prepared for the Uzbek language and literature classes, foreign experience in this field, as well as the formation of the necessary skills, creative and technological culture for the effective organization of the pedagogical process in the

Within the framework of the issues to be implemented in the process of mastering the educational science of this "modern information technologies in the education of Uzbek language and literature", the student is expected to achieve the following results:

- basic concepts, terms and functions of Information Technology in education;
- structure and structure of information and education environment;
- world experience in the formation of skills in working with information technology;
- in the world of information technologists should have an idea of the reform of scientific and educational research work;
- the culture of working with information technology;
- interactive whiteboard in the process of training, should know and be able to use;
- Organization of pedagogical activity with the application of modern information technologies in the educational process;
- must have skills to know the types and structure of multimedia textbooks;
- must have skills of rational, effective use of e-learning resources

Conclusion. Today is the period requirement for any science teacher to be able to create pedagogical programming tools and apply them efficiently in training. The above science, which teaches the ways to improve the quality and efficiency of electronic materials used in the lessons of the Uzbek language and literature, serves to ensure the organization of the Uzbek language and literature lessons at a higher level.

References:

1. Shayxislamov, N. (2020). The use of interactive methods in native language lessons. ProSpecs of Development of Science and Education, 1(2), 247-249.p
2. Shayxislamov, N.. (2020). The use of modern pedagogical technologies in the teaching of native language science. Science and education issues in Uzbekistan: problems and solutions, (3), 71-73.p
3. Begimkulov H.Sh. Modern in pedagogical education scientific-theoretical basis of the introduction of Information Technology. - Tashkent: Science, 2007. - 144-p.