Nowadays, it is so tremendously crucial to underline and widely to state out that knowledge regarding the abilities of acquisition of English language and specifically the capabilities towards speaking skills are not seen as the requirements being imposed by any international company or any office but moreover the most integral necessity or time, due to the issue that the world had transferred to the unique possibilities of strengthening and deepening the communicative matters, which lie in the issues connected with the devastatingly essential features of the abilities to be boosted in any regard or in any location, As it is clear, currently, countries located so far away from the central decision zones are as well switching to learn English and especially their people try to improve speaking as the main form of communication. These days, it became absolutely vividly clear that English language had already become as the most significant language as the dominating language of commerce, business, international relations, world's trade, diplomatic exchanges all over the planet the diplomatic representatives of various countries primarily communicate using English language, which creates a range of possibilities for broader collaborations between the people of various areas. In other words, English language is seen as the language, which definitely brings its perfect outputs between its communicators. In this very scientific article, I would draw my particular attention to the matter of high value and very much tremendously crucial point of the dominating value and significance to acquire skills of Speaking, due to the fact that this very skills do exactly bring highly esteemed patterns of value to the speaker, because the person, who can express his or her ideas in English language is without doubts considered as the one, who can reach high level results in various spheres of life. In other words speaking can provide people with the firm confidence of being noticeable and hearable by the public as their abilities to present material, to share ideas and to talk about very much important matters are largely interesting to explore.

It is obvious that the results of appropriate acquisition of speaking skills are connected with the issue that are being manifested through the matters off development of a person's career opportunities, due to the fact that career nowadays shall be built in case a person firmly knows and understands that it is so essential to sit down and to start to improve speaking skills, without which it is practically impossible to reach to the top, because such skills are heavily necessary especially when we are living in integrated world when countries of the world communicate with each one another through English language, in other words, the role of learning and obtaining of speaking skills is starting to become as the key matter, also due to the advanced needs of it's learners to get skills, which shall give their fruitful results overall when people will reach towards the most effective outputs of development.

Now, let us focus on speaking skills and the most tremendously significant matters of speaking as the main skills of English language, it is rather valuable to state out that the role of English language in the modern communication is seen as the most prevailing feature also due to the business issue as the urban characteristics are growing and there are a lot factories being opened and many of them cooperate with foreign investments the significance for communicative skills is heavily rising, it is to note that the companies of international levels such as those located in highly developed countries such the USA, Great Britain, Australia, Canada actively cooperate with the Asian world countries like Thailand, Vietnam, Malaysia, Indonesia are actively cooperating with English speaking countries, in this regard English and it's speaking skills of learners is becoming as the most significant issue to be properly learned and acquired, therefore, the outputs of learning shall be seen in the capabilities towards clear understanding of the great necessities to upgrade a person's career especially towards improvement of speaking skills one can find a nice job faster and more effectively; to be exact the person with advanced speaking skills will be absolutely useful for the international company than someone, who does not speak English language very well.

To comprehend properly, it is obvious that business talks are also carried out perfectly and such negotiations are tending to be especially effective when people including managers and top managers as well choose a loyal way of discussions also considering that if they choose one common beneficial ground for each other such collaborative pattern shall become more effective than any other collaborative -oriented tools, in other words, it is largely significant to specify that business will grow also due to manager's knowledge exactly towards English speaking skills, which are considered as the most effective ways to build an appropriate career, the advancement of chances to be super successful in any career lie in the issue that people will be feeling rather beneficial in case they will be working harder to obtain very nice possibilities for speaking potential in any particular job.

Now we are going to focus on how effective can be speaking skills in case we would take several examples of anybody, who works as a Tour-Guide as it clear, this very job involves a lot of communication, people, who work actually as Tour -guides are exposed to present information, to build very strong social cooperation and to be delivering a lot of ideas into the contextual issues as well, due to the necessities to talk about history, I had observed several examples when Tour-guides could not deliver their speech properly due to the lack of necessary vocabulary or speech patterns, which are definitely seen as devastatingly important for learners; to work as a Tour -Guide speaking skills are moving to the top requirement including the ability to manifest yourself as a Speaker become tremendously important for any person.

To be able to express oneself using Speaking as a main tool of communication stands for the fundamental ability in case a person comes to an English speaking country in other words, when you arrive to London; the need to use speaking as a communication -related device is becoming so largely significant, also due to the fact that people in London will speak mainly English and it will be so significant to learn how to speak English effectively; as it is known Speaking as a unique skills also requires from it's learners to be ready to learn words and words-combinations, because words and their combinations will bring to the advanced level the knowledge of learners; in other words learning complicated phrases and words-combinations shall be a tremendously interesting experience also regarding the capabilities of people, who travel to various countries to be aware of marvelous experience a person would face being in a foreign country.

To be able to enhance speaking as a skill is seen as the most difficult "path" as a lot of obstacles shall be gone through, speaking may be a bit more complicated for learners also because they have not yet become accustomed to regularly use English as many people feel "comfortable" using their mother-tongue in various situations it is becoming very much interesting to switch to English language in many cases, however it may seem to be yet something as a great barrier as learners have not yet developed suitable habits to appropriately and properly communicate in English, it is possible to imagine several teenagers, who came from Bulgaria and who started to speak English in the streets of London, for sure may face a feeling of being adaptable may seem as a hard burden on them as in Bulgaria they are used to speak in their mother-tongue, hence, the adaptability period within several months will be so significant for them to deal with pronunciations as well and to use English on a regular basis would be a bit hard for the Bulgarian learners in the beginning they may feel uncertainties about whether they can acquire English very well or nor, even though in case they would try very hard the potential to grow exponentially regarding speaking would definitely become as a dominating factor.

As a matter of fact it is rather significant to deal properly with language acquisition patterns, to be exact how language is being acquired in the process of usage in kids, when children try to learn English language they go through various stages, which are definitely represented in the table given below; in other words, they go through mainly 4 stages in which children become as active listeners, in order to improve speaking as a skills first of all kids perceive information being given and other words through the speech of the pronouncers i.e. appropriate sounds are being caught by kinds and later this very process will help them to fix necessary words or phrases, which they regularly use in the English language, comparing with the Russian speakers those who imitate English words and memorize English poems shall prevail over those who do not. Simply to say perception and awareness of the language are both interrelated and children can differentiate between necessary sounds in the specific words for example if we take the word "shark" sometimes it is possible to pronounce the letter "r" and at the same time to sound like Americans do sharpening "r", which becomes equal with a roaring of a lion. Such kind of perceptions will for sure help learners to acquire necessary skills to produce speech as well as the sounds, which are regularly used in the English language. Some variations and differentiations shall be used as necessary patterns to show how specific is the system of pronunciation in English language.

THE JOURNEY OF LANGUAGE ACQUISITION

Language acquisition patterns in learners.

Now, in this very scientific article let us focus on speaking as the interaction pattern. Its role as interaction is connected with the social types of interaction, in other words a conversation is seen as the most important one. It reflects the roles and the relationships of the speaker in a social setting. For example, chatting to a fellow passenger, telling a friend about an amusing experience, or having a chat with the tourists from various countries or asking to purchase a cup of coffee in London, these are the basic formats of communication, which shall be realized through necessities to communicate in different situations.

The role of speaking as transaction is to make someone understand the message that we want to give to him/her. The focus of this type of speaking is giving and receiving information and obtaining goods/services. For example, classroom group discussions, shopping, making a telephone call, ordering food from a menu in a restaurant, etc. use speaking as transaction of information.

Speaking as Performance

The role of speaking as performance is to transmit information before an audience. It generally incorporates public speaking. It focuses on form, accuracy, organization, and sequencing, etc. of speaking. It is obvious to see and to observe how the public speaking functions in other words, public speakers will deliver their messages that may definitely change the lives of people, probably providing with guidelines regarding different matters. One clear example is connected with the abilities of a person to give a lecture or to deliver any information. I have decided to provide types of public speaking, which can be verbal, non-verbal, giving a presentation and etc.

The first type is called as verbal type of public speech, it is connected with speaking clearly, loudly, which allows listeners to take their active part.

The second type of communication is the non-verbal type, which is connected with standing in front of an audience, which requires an appropriate eye contact and body language to convey confidence and a strong stage presence. Preparation for the delivery of presentation– in which practicing is an essential part of preparing for a presentation that often gets overlooked, because sometimes we do not consider the time management very well.

Overall to say the skill of Speaking is connected with Public Speaking as the speakers would like to deliver their ideas and by doing so they will transmit their thoughts by giving and sharing their view through the presentation of any topic by a special delivery of thoughts, in other words speaking as a skill shall be seen as a prevailing issue as well as a range of gestures, which can be intermingled with the effective delivery of the necessary information. In many cases the public speaking skills shall tell their listeners absolutely unique things that probably listeners had not thought about yet.

The public speaker has got his or her main goal, which is concealed in a delivery of information in it's best manner through the issue of delivery by words and phrases the Public speaker shall present something new. The Listeners will be astonished by the unique language, which is always applied by the Speaker. Depending on the topic the delivery shall be variable. If the speaker talks about the healthy life style or discusses about the favorite landscape or any other topics, It is rather important to say that the Public Speaker shall tell about the issue that have to be discussed at the present situation such issues related with the effects of the weather conditions or for example informing about the possibilities of hurricanes in the harbours or large ports.

The most important matter for public speakers is to prepare well beforehand regarding the delivery of the topic, which shall be connected with the agenda of the topic and the goal to produce an influence definitely the positive one on listeners, the audience shall grasp the most fundamental matters as to compare with the previous comprehension, which shall devastatingly change as the Speaker shall produce an impact on its listeners.
